MAJOR TALKS ARRANGED

Democratic and Farm-Labor Leaders to Confer

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL TRAIN, IN IOWA, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The largest presidential campaign special that ever rolled out of Washington returned President Roosevelt to the midwestern political firing line today on the first stage of a 5,000-mile tour.

The chief executive and a party of Democratic leaders moved directly into Iowa and Minnesota for a series of speeches, platform appearances and party conferences designed to strengthen his bid for the electoral votes of these pivotal states.

Speeding from Washington by way of Pittsburgh and Chicago, the presidential special headed for Dubuque, Ia., where 45 minutes were set aside for a motor tour with Gov. Clyde Herring to Eagles Point Park, a Mississippi channel project, and a WPA civic water tower.

To Meet Farmers

A group of Wisconsin farm leaders also headed for Dubuque where they were promised a meeting with the president if time permits, and with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who is in the presidential party.

Leaving Dubuque, the special will bear Mr. Roosevelt through Oelwein and Hayfield, Ia., into St. Paul, Minn., where an important conference is scheduled with farm leaders, Democrats and Farmer-Laborites.

The special will arrive in St. Paul at 4:45 p. m. (CST). Mr. Roosevelt will motor directly to the steps of the state capitol for an address, then cross the Mississippi river for a personal appearance. The pow-wow will begin on his return to the train.

EXHIBIT OF ART IS PROVIDED IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

An exhibit of unusual value and interest is being shown at the Public Library for the next few days. It will probably be removed early next week.

The exhibit includes the Georg Jensen silver, Royal Copenhagen porcelain, Hjord stoneware, Carl Sorensen bronze, and Otto Christensen wool. Miss Gretchen Moeller, in charge of the library during Miss Mary Wilder's absence, is proud of the exhibit and believes many Circleville and Pickaway county residents should view it.

A grape compote is a replica of the one acquired for the Brooklyn, Newark and Detroit museums. Many other articles are outstanding and of much interest.

In the same case containing the work, all of which is Danish, are some Swedish products brought to Circleville by Miss Flora Dunlap.

Georg Jensen is the famous sculpto silversmith who lived to see his works acquired for the greatest museums in the world and who is claimed to be the greatest silversmith in the world in 300 years. He lived and worked in Denmark. Most of his inspiration was taken from nature. He used the leaf, seed and grape in his designs.

Many persons are expected to view the exhibit.

STORM SWEEPS MANILA REGION

Many Deaths Feared as Northern Islands Are Cut Off

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 9.—(UP)—A typhoon swept across the northern islands today, cutting off communications from ten provinces and inflicting heavy damages. Many others were feared.

The storm was veering to northern Luzon and Manila. The weather bureau reported another typhoon was forming south of Manila.

Many fishing boats and other small craft were missing. Search for them was hampered by suspension of Communications, which crippled the entire northern portion of Luzon.

Large property losses were reported.

Scattered advices from the storm area indicated virtually all rice crops were ruined.

Reports of many deaths and injuries could not be immediately confirmed due to lack of communications.

Several villages were reported destroyed.

Some apprehension was felt in Manila. It was learned both of the storms might veer to the city.

BALIK PAPAN, Dutch Borneo, Oct. 9.—(UP)—H. R. Ekins, round-the-world air racer, said today that he will leave at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow for Manila, heading over wild tropical country where typhoons presently are raging.

MADRID GIRDING TO HALT DRIVE OF REBEL FORCE

Emergency Defense Formed To Command Operations During Siege

CHILDREN ARE REMOVED

Ring Forming About City 40 Miles Distant

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Madrid formed an emergency defense committee today which took life and death power in the capital to stand off the insurgent siege.

All elements supporting the Spanish loyalist government were represented including the anarchists and syndicalists. A curfew was imposed, army airplanes were sent from Madrid in anticipation of insurgent raids, children started for the seacoast, clerks and workmen were sent to man the new city fortifications, to remain until the siege is over.

33 Miles From City

At the closest point the insurgents were 33 miles from the city; approximately their forces formed a ring over a 40 mile radius, with a break at the east side toward the Mediterranean coast.

Insurgents, announcing new victories in the area west of the capital, believed they had trapped an army of 2,500 loyalists in the Gredos mountains and had cut off a supply column called the "international" and said to have been recruited partly at Marseilles, France.

It was learned that the rebel leaders expect a desperate fight for Madrid and believe it will take several weeks to reduce the city.

In London the non-intervention committee of 27 nations met to try to sidetrack Russia's demand for immediate cessation of alleged fascist aid to the insurgents. It was hoped that a "formula" could be found by which repatriation to Russia's charges could be sought from Italy, Germany and Portugal. This course would delay any Russian action toward denouncing the non-intervention agreement and perhaps aiding the loyalists directly.

AI Hits Repudiation Of Party Platform

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The New Deal's alleged repudiation of its 1932 platform is the ammunition Al Smith carries today in his battle to drive the Roosevelt administration out of power.

Swinging his brown derby and heading toward further assaults on the administration, Smith made it clear why he took his famous "walk" and why he broke his lifetime ties with the Democratic party.

He did it in a speech last night before 4,000 persons in the Metropolitan Opera House—most of them dissatisfied Democrats who said they would follow the happy warrior "as long as he wants to walk, as far as he wants to walk and in any direction he may choose to go."

Smith drew a blue print of his strategy between now and election day. Plank by plank, he said, he intends to take up the 1932 Democratic platform and in future speeches attempt to show that the Roosevelt administration threw them "out the window." Last night he dealt with the farm plank, accusing the New Deal of repudiating its pledge to the farmers, of forcing up the cost of living, of destroying foreign markets for agricultural products and of opening trade channels to a flood of farm imports.

He spoke under auspices of a committee of 17 Philadelphia Democrats, headed by Registrar of Wills Harry Dougherty, who introduced Smith as "the still happy warrior, fighting with all his might for God and country."

$10,000 SOUGHT AS RESULT OF ASHVILLE CRASH

The petition explains young Morrison was riding in a Ford coupe with Petty, going west on Main street in the village, when the car crashed into parked truck owned by Frank A. Redge. It says the bed and flooring of the truck, loaded with 12,000 pounds of canned goods, was pushed forward three inches and the truck was shoved about eight feet. The suit charges Petty was driving carelessly and at an excessive rate of speed.

Italian Aide Says Charges of Spain Groundless

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The Portuguese delegate, accusing Soviet Russia of "an act of hostility," walked out of a meeting of the international committee of 27 nations on neutrality in Spain today.

The meeting was generally stormy, and Portugal's action was preceded by a clash between Italy and Britain.

Francisco Calmeiro, the Portuguese delegate, resented Russia's charge that Portugal violated the international agreement for neutrality in Spain by permitting shipment of arms through her territory. He said he would not sit with the committee again unless instructed by his government.

Russia Angry, too

Russia also has accused Germany and Italy of aiding the Spanish rebels, threatening to give armed support to the government side if such aid does not cease.

When the meeting opened, Luigi Plymouth, president, presented the memorandum regarding neutrality violations which Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, Spanish foreign minister, handed to the League of Nations on Sept. 15.

Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to London, at once arose and denounced the accusations of "Spain's socialist-communist government" as groundless.

Attempting to answer Del Vayo's charges point by point, Grandi sought to prove that most of the war material shipments to the rebels specified by Del Vayo had occurred before Italy imposed her embargo on such shipments.

Grandi then attacked Britain, charging that British subjects had joined the Madrid government forces, mentioning among others the labor member of parliament, William Dobbie.

The Italian, German and Portuguese representatives, after some hesitation, agreed to submit to the committee the observations of their governments on the Del Vayo indictment.

AN, CATHOLIC LEADER SCORES COUGHLIN IDEAS

Major Offensive Opened Against Radio Priest
by Democrats

ICKES TO HIT SMITH

Commandment is Violated in G.O.P. Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — (UP) — The New Deal opened a major barrage against Father Charles E. Coughlin today.

The attack was opened last night by the Rt. Rev. John A. Ryan in a nationwide broadcast assailing Coughlin's economic theories and denouncing those who have raised the issue of communism in the national campaign.

Tonight Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes carries forward the offensive with an address seeking to link Coughlin with the Republican high command. The title of his speech is "Landon, Coughlin et al" — the "Al" refers to Alfred E. Smith.

Meantime the Democratic National committee emphasized the importance it attached to Ryan's pronouncement by undertaking mass distribution of the Catholic educator's address. Several hundred thousand copies will be distributed. The task of putting them in the mails was under way even before Ryan spoke.

On University Faculty
Ryan is a member of the faculty of Catholic university.

"I say deliberately to the laboring men and women of America," he said, "that Father Coughlin's explanation of our economic malady is at least 50 per cent wrong and that his monetary remedies are at least 90 per cent wrong."

"If the latter were enacted into law they would prove disastrous to the great majority of the American people, particularly to the wage earners."

"Moreover, Father Coughlin's monetary theories and proposals find no support in the encyclicals of either Pope Leo XIII or Pope Pius XI."

"Tollers of America, I implore you not to permit yourselves to be misled."

In contrast, he cited President Roosevelt as "the man who has shown a deeper and more sympathetic understanding of your needs and who has brought about more fundamental legislation for labor and for social justice than any other president in American history."

He characterized forecasts by Coughlin and Union party spokesmen that the candidacy of William Lemke will throw the election into the house of representatives as a delusion.

Needs One State

"Do not let yourselves be persuaded that your votes can throw the presidential election into the house," he said. "That can not happen unless Mr. Lemke carries at least one state. Where is he going to find that state?"

Ryan charged that those who make "the despicable assertion that the president of the United States is a communist" are violators of the commandment which declares:

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

He said that persons who believed Mr. Roosevelt was a communist were guilty of a sin "only one degree less than the sin of those who utter and spread the contemptible accusation."

AIR LINE AIDS PACIFIC TRADE

MANILA (UP) — Establishment of air service across the Pacific Ocean should serve to revive trade among the Philippines, Hawaii and Guam, all three under the American flag, according to Jose R. Ablang of the Philippine Bureau of Commerce.

Philippine trade relations with Hawaii and Guam, a sister colony under Spain prior to 1898, are comparatively insignificant now, a trade report prepared by Ablang reveals. In 1935, Philippine exports to Hawaii amounted to $251,788, while imports totaled $288,086. Exports to Guam reached $229,810, while imports amounted to $48,268.

Hawaii Coffee Gains
Hawaii forged ahead slightly as a coffee exporter to the Philippines during the past five years, Ablang reported. In 1930 the Dutch East Indies supplied 1,645,163 kilos of raw coffee worth $391,471, while Hawaii shipped 559,606 kilos (a kilo equals 2.2 pounds) valued at $213,196.

Last year Hawaii supplied about 45 per cent of the total raw coffee imported, or 1,176,561 kilos worth $268,676. The Dutch East Indies, which has to pay duty while Hawaii does not, supplied 2,361,313 kilos worth $333,834 in 1935. The total imported last year was 3,535,661 kilos valued at $604,272.

Imports from U. S.
Virtually all of the manufactured coffee imported by the Philippines comes from continental United States.

On the other hand, Hawaii bought $101,375 worth of Philippine cigars last year, and $21,639 worth of Manila rope. Hawaiian importations of these two products, of course, are only a small fraction of that imported by the United States, the Philippines' biggest customer.

The bulk of Philippine exports to Guam consists of breadstuffs, shoes and slippers, leaf tobacco and sugar, while imports consist mainly of copra.

"Who's that A-Calling?" Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair," and "The Heavens Resound." Orchestral selections will open the program. The choral selections will follow and the county band will be the last feature of the program.

Choral selections for the county music festival to be held Dec. 9 at Jackson township school were chosen Wednesday afternoon by music teachers. Six selections were chosen, three of them sacred music.

They are: "O Come, O Come Emmanuel," "Lo, What a Branch of Beauty!" "Cantique de Noel," Tennessee's initial tally shows 9,840 votes for Roosevelt to 5,381 for Landon.

Wisconsin goes into the Republican column by 3 1/2 to 2 lead for Landon and it also gives Lemke over 6 per cent of the state's vote.

Wyoming joins the Republican column by approximately the same ratio as Wisconsin.

PICKAWAY-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

First Grade News

There are 27 pupils enrolled in the first grade. We have 13 boys and 14 girls. We are learning to write our names.

Each pupil is making a scrap-book so that he can keep his first grade papers. We also have one large scrap-book for the room.

We decided to build a cornstalk cabin. The children thought it would be nice to make a fence around the cabin also the people, and furniture for the cabin.

Third Grade News

The third grade pupils are progressing very nicely in all their subjects, especially spelling. The pupils are very enthusiastic about their new arithmetic and reading books.

This week the third grade is starting the study of birds and their environments, with each pupil making a notebook.

The boys and girls also enjoy their library, which is well supplied with interesting and brightly colored books.

Fourth Grade News

Our fourth grade has an enrollment of twenty-six pupils, fifteen girls and eleven boys. Our attendance report for the school month just completed was 98.14 per cent.

We are enjoying our class work very much as we have interesting new work-books for geography, arithmetic and English. We want to mention our spelling because we particularly like our new spelling tablet and its method of teaching spelling. This Friday we all hope to make one hundred when spelling period comes.

Fifth Grade

There are twelve girls and 17 boys in the fifth grade. Twenty-three have perfect attendance for September. In our nature class we have been studying and making a collection of fall flowers, weeds and seeds. We are reading the book, Roany, by Clarence Hawkes.

Sixth Grade

We have 24 in our room this year. Our girls surpass the boys in number, there being 16 girls and eight boys.

Our attendance for the month of September was very good. The per cent was 99.12, the boys having two days absence and the girls four days. We had two weeks of perfect attendance.

We are very proud of our new arithmetic books and work books. Evelyn Adams, Dottie Howe, Mary Lane, Bertha Lee, Dorothy Nungester, Norma Jean Penn, Edith Rapp, Geraldine Smith, Virginia Strawser, Marguerite Timmons and Donald Whaley each received 100 per cent in spelling last week.

We are making booklets on and learning the poem "Evening at the Farm."

Our grade will have the Chapel program this Friday.

We have organized our History Club and have held two meetings. Our president for this week is Norma Jean Penn, and secretary, Donald Whaley. Kenneth Timmons was elected treasurer for the year. Our dues are a penny a week.

Seventh Grade

The seventh grade numbers 30 this year — 14 boys and 16 girls. The girls won the attendance honors for September with 100 per cent, the boys trailing with 92 per cent.

We are drawing maps of the New England states now. The best ones may be exhibited at the Circleville Pumpkin Show.

Eighth Grade

The eighth grade has twenty-three for its number — eleven girls and twelve boys. We realize there is much to learn during the eighth year and with some new text books and work books we hope to accomplish many things.

In our geography class we have made a brief study of the British Isles and are planning on making booklets containing some of the most important facts.

The making of circle and bar graphs has been a new step in arithmetic.

English class has brought forth many interesting things about summer vacations and has made us realize that some of the essentials of English have been forgotten.

All are looking forward to the opportunity of securing the new reading circle books for the year.

Our biggest problem is the fact that the school day seems too short, so some subjects have to be prepared at home.

On September 15 the eighth grade presented the assembly program before the high school. The program was centered around Constitution Day, which is September 17.

Group singing, the assembly, scripture lesson, Ruth Immelt; Meaning of the Constitution, Marie Adams; The American Creed, Carl Seymour; History of the Constitution, Maxine Sparks; piano solo, Roselyn Dreisbach; Pledge to the American Flag, Neil Leist; Group singing, eighth grade; violin solo, Evelyn Pierce.

The eighth grade for the first time has the opportunity of joining the Athletic Association.

We invite you to come and visit us while we are at work.

fourth, 98.1 percent, fifth 97.1 percent; sixth, 99.2 percent; seventh, 97.16 percent; eighth grade, 97.60 percent; high school 95.2 percent.

Assembly

Assembly is being held this year on each Friday morning. The first to the seventh grades compose the Junior Assembly and hold their meeting one week, while the eighth grade to the twelfth make up the Senior assembly, and hold their meeting the next week.

The first assembly of the year was held on September 16 and was conducted by the eighth grade. It was followed on the next week by the Seventh grade which represents the Junior Chapel Group. Last Friday the Freshman class presented a very interesting program. The next program will be on Friday morning, October 9 at 8:30, by the Sixth grade. Parents and patrons are invited to attend any of these meetings.

Those who went to the football game Saturday were: Jimmy Boggs, Betty Duvall, Ralph Dunkel, Edith Graves, Wesley Graves, Jr., Kathleen Hinton, Charles Hinton, Charles Hall, Fred Kitchen, Mary Jane Kriesel, Orin Dreisbach Jr., Dorothy Temple, Dolly Roll, Charles Mowery Jr., Virgil Timmons, Doris Leist, Weldon Leist, Harold Riffel, Ruth Montelius, James Mowery Jr., Patty McGinnis, Roger May, George Wilson, Irene Pontious, Jay Warner, Robert Vandervort.

They were accompanied by the coach, Carl Burger and the girls' supervisor Miss Opal Marshall.

Landscaping Project

The agriculture class under direction of Mr. Bradley, is preparing and seeding the lawn in front of the building. It is giving the boys experience in seed bed preparation and other necessary operations in the building of a lawn which will be useful at their homes. The class is also working on plans for the landscaping of the buildings.

Music Department

The High School vocal music classes are now organized with a total of sixty-five pupils as members. Thirty-one are singing in the boys chorus, and thirty-five in the girls chorus. Eyer Dreisbach is official accompanist for both vocal and instrumental classes. Other piano students will be added as assistants later. Tryouts have been completed for voice parts and the mixed chorus is working on a very attractive four part song "The Invitation of the Bells" from Chimes of Normandy, by Planquette. We are enjoying our New American Song Books also.

The orchestra is doing some good work and we are anxious to get more beginners on string and brass instruments to build our group into a larger organization. As it stands now we have only fifteen students playing in the Orchestra. These are doing splendid work however. They are playing "The Bohemian Girl" by Balfe and "Tales from the Vienna Woods" by Strauss.

We are trying to arouse interest in the formation of a school band. Also we hope to have a much larger student participation in instrumental music than ever before in the history of this department.

Art Department

The children in all grades are learning the theory of color, and are learning some of the laws of color combinations. They are making pictures with colors in sequence around the color wheel. The upper grades are making their own color wheels with cut paper, crayons, and paints.

We also hope to be well represented in the Pumpkin Show Junior Fair Poster Contest. Some time for this activity will be given in the upper grade art classes.

CITY TO VOTE ON ACQUIRING RIVAL UTILITY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP)—Residents of Springfield will participate in a referendum vote on Oct. 20 on the question of whether the city's electric service plant shall purchase a rival private utility's electric business.

The proposed transaction, which would give the municipally owned plant a monopoly no the electric current business here, entails expenditure of $7,200,000, the purchase price agreed upon by officials of the two groups.

City Commissioner Willis J. Spaulding, who has been head of the water and electric light plants here for years, and Arthur D. Mackie, vice president and general manager of the Central Illinois Light Company, are the principals involved.

At present Springfield enjoys one of the lowest rates for electric current in the United States. A huge artificial lake recently was completed here with a 40-mile shore line to add to the city's power properties.

The referendum will cost approximately $9,000 and will be paid for out of earnings of the city's plant. The city also proposes to pay for the private utility's business from its earnings over a period of 20 years.

YOUNG G-MAN DEMONSTRATES HOW TO CLEAN UP GRAFT IN BIG CITY

NESS SUSPENDS CLEVELANDERS AS RACKETEERS

Score of Policemen Fired on Bribery Charges During Probe

CROOKEDNESS SIFTED

Youthful Ex-U. S. Worker Creating Precedent

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9 — Can a young G-man make good as the "boss" of the police and fire departments in a large city?

Cleveland can answer — for 32-year-old Eliot Ness has made good in racket-ridden Cleveland as director of public safety.

Today, after less than a year in office, Ness is a dramatic success. With smashing, far-reaching blows, he has rocked Cleveland with the most sensational shake-ups the police department has ever known.

Twenty policemen, including a number of high-ranking officers, are involved in a single charge.

Protection

They are accused of protecting bootleggers during the prohibition era, and eight of the 20 have been relieved of duty. Further suspensions or other disciplinary actions are expected.

In previous shakeups Ness has retired other high officers of the police department, one of whom has been convicted.

"I have never seen a situation for which there is not some legal remedy," said Ness when he took over the reins last December.

His actions have been precipitated by a study of the problem at hand. As a result, he now is prepared to go before the Cuyahoga county grand jury to present charges which are the result of a long investigation.

Ness' investigation has centered around the activities of Capt. Michael J. Harwood, precinct commander, one of those relieved of duty some months ago. When Captain Harwood submitted his resignation with a request that he be placed on a lifetime pension of $140 a month, Director Ness refused to accept it, and suspended the officer.

Captain Harwood was relieved after Ness personally had raided a bookie joint in the captain's precinct, reputedly operated by Edward Harwood, son of the police captain.

One Conviction

The safety director's investigation also allegedly involved ex-Capt. Louis J. Cadek, recently sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for a term of from two to 20 years on a charge of bribery. He was convicted of accepting bribes from bootleggers in the amount of nearly $100,000. He is appealing.

Witnesses involved in the Ness investigation have charged that numerous police officers accumulated large bank accounts as the result of their reported activities.

Some weeks after Captain Harwood was suspended, Ness ordered the largest wholesale shakeup in the history of the Cleveland police up to that time, changing the entire personnel of the Fifteenth Precinct station, affecting 21 officers and men.

Ness said his action was prompted by a secret investigation during which he learned that the citizens living in the district had "lost all confidence and respect for police generally."

Smashed Capone

And this is only the beginning, for Director Ness, who was the spearhead of the government's drive in Chicago which smashed the dynasty of Al Capone, is known to be conducting similar investigations throughout the department.

Using G-man tactics, Ness has conducted a number of raids on gambling joints and other places which have gone a long way toward cleaning up Cleveland.

The resignation of Capt. Adolph Lenehan, who was in command of the Eighth precinct, for example, was the outgrowth of a personally conducted Ness raid.

Eliot Ness, Cleveland's G-man safety director, is only 32.

A squad of newly-appointed rookie patrolmen, unknown to the rank and file of the department, were trained in G-man tactics and assigned to investigate conditions in the Eighth Precinct, where Ness had received reports that a bookie joint was being operated with no interference from police.

Rookies at Work

As Ness explains it:

"The rookies gained entrance to the place, mingled with the crowds, picked out the operators and then made telephone reports of what they found to Captain Lenehan."

"No action was taken."

"Next, I had a woman call the precinct to complain that her son was losing all his money in the joint."

"Still no action was taken."

Ness then described the raid, which was well planned. The rookies already were "planted" in the place. Headed by Ness, the raiders approached the place and surrounded it. The warning signal of the lookouts was the signal for the police to strike. When the lights went on, the rookies held nine operators who previously had been spotted. The raiders scooped up $700 in cash, and the joint was closed.

Describing Captain Lenehan's alleged failure to close the joint as "mere negligence," Ness permitted the captain to resign.

The system of appointing patrolmen to the Cleveland police department also has undergone a complete change. Candidates are told to disregard any hint of politics or statements that they must pay some higher-up in order to obtain an appointment.

Named on Merits

The eligible list is followed as closely as possible, according to Ness, and appointments are made on the merits of the applicants. They are given physical examinations, intelligence tests, oral interviews with Ness or one of his assistants. They are fingerprinted, and their records checked thoroughly, even so far as the National Bureau of Identification in Washington is concerned.

"In this way," says Ness, "we virtually eliminate the possibility of appointing any man with any sort of a criminal record."

He cited the example of a policeman recently brought to trial on a charge of automobile stealing. He ended his life with a revolver during a recess of his trial.

"We give our men all the confidence possible," Ness said. "We tell them they can do their duty and that we expect them to do it. Political influence does not enter into the performance of their duty. They do not need to fear anyone as long as they do their duty."

Spurns Transfers

"Mere transfers to correct personal limitations, inability or lack of desire to perform the functions of duty are ineffective. If a man employed by a chain of restaurants is transferred from one restaurant to another because he's not doing a good job, this will not necessarily improve his work because of the change. The same thing applies to the police department."

Director Ness also has instituted a program of crime prevention. Those who were disappointed when Ness did not make several drastic changes when he first took office now are commending him for the results he is obtaining.

Gas would puff me up and I could hear it bubbling in my stomach, then I'd belch up an acid liquid with a bitter taste. Felt like a jump would rise in my throat that I could not swallow. If I ate a heavy meal at night, I was sure to be restless all night long. "I was constipated all the time and I'm sure this is what made me feel dizzy when I'd bend over and also made little spots jump before my eyes. "I knew a lot of people were taking Vendol for these troubles so I got some and have found astonishing relief. In less than two weeks I could tell it was helping me and after three bottles I can safely say I'm feeling better than in years. "I enjoy my meals now and no longer suffer from sour stomach and all the other troubles caused by it. My bowels are regular every day, never feel dizzy any more and I enjoy sound, peaceful sleep every night. Vendol surely is a good medicine."

WHEAT PRICES CLIMBING WITH STRIKE AT END

Chicago Market Brisk
With Offers Going
Up Substantially

$1.12 AT LOCAL MILLS

Fear of Russian Action in Europe Cited

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Wheat prices climbed on the middlewestern market Thursday with much of the credit due to the settlement of the strike that has recently tied up the Minneapolis grain and flour industry.

The Circleville price went as high as $1.12.

Possibilities of Russian intervention in the Spanish war did much also to strengthen wheat values. Outstanding, too, as a bullish factor were estimates that as much as 1,500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought today for export.

In addition to anxiety expressed about renewal of trans-Atlantic political strain, trade talk was current that in certain contingencies the narrow margin between world wheat supplies and estimated needs was not likely to cause European demand both for United States soft winter wheat and hard winter, as well as Pacific Coast wheats now being exported.

With Liverpool wheat prices much higher than expected, and sterling also up, the Chicago wheat market showed from the outset a disposition to climb.

Among contingencies referred to as reasons for possible demand from Europe for United States wheat other than Pacific Coast shipments were chances of substantial losses of Southern Hemisphere crops. Significance in this respect was attached to reports that European Continental countries today were buying old and new crop Argentina wheat.

Particular notice was taken that the October delivery of wheat in Liverpool commanded today the highest price in six years.

Special attention, too, was given to assertions in some quarters that Argentina would prohibit old crop exports. Later advices, however, said the Argentine Government had not prohibited exports of old wheat but had withdrawn government offers from the market, not interfering, meanwhile, with private export transactions.

Highest prices of the day in Chicago for wheat were reached after the Minneapolis market jumped briskly on account of expectation of large flour purchasing as a result of the end of labor trouble. Chicago December wheat contracts rose to $1.14 1/2, but sagged afterward about half cent.

Corn, oats, and rye borrowed firmness from wheat. Rural offerings of corn continued extremely small. A feature, however, was the slowly increasing amount of new corn appearing primary receipts.

Notable strength developed in soy beans. Illinois reports said harvesting of the beans was being seriously delayed by wet weather.

What Shall Washington Police Do With "Protected" Peanut Vendors

Steve Nasilakos who stands at the White House gates has been whistling merrily for many years.

WASHINGTON, — Washington police today scratched their heads over a dilemma that would puzzle King Solomon—what to do about Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the White House peanut vendors.

One of the peanut salesmen already is well known to Washington visitors. He is Steve Nasilakos, whose stand at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Madison place, at the White House gates, has been whistling merrily for many years.

The other is a newcomer, who is trying to smash Steve's monopoly. He is Felix Desritto, former bantamweight champion boxer of the navy. He is blind, and is the father of seven children.

Police Powerless
Steve's stand has long irked Washington traffic officials. But they have been powerless to move him.

Beginning with the administration of President Harding, the police have been trying to eject him from the busy traffic intersection. Each time he has appealed to the First Lady, but Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Coolidge, Mrs. Hoover and now Mrs. Roosevelt, requested that he be allowed to remain. And he has remained.

Now comes Desritto. He is not protesting because Steve has been immune from persecution. He requests the same rights for himself.

Business Good—Then, a Fine
He began his campaign by setting up his stand on the ellipse, outside the south portico of the White House. Business was good, but police arrested him, hauled him to court, and he was fined $5.

Now the blind vendor plans to lay his case before Mrs. Roosevelt. He says he cannot make a living if he is forced to remain in the district set aside for vendors, explaining that those sellers who have their sight can spot customers approaching and get all the business. He adds:

"I never have been on relief and I don't want to be, but what can

I do?"

"Down behind the White House, I am lucky if I make a dollar. With seven children and a wife I could make as much as $5 on good days but on the other streets had a chance such as Steve's got."

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

To the Editor:

Quite a few Circleville Dollars have been wasted through another peddler. The desire to make home surroundings beautiful is commendable and when this desire is taken advantage of it is deplorable.

Several years ago, another peddler came to town from Lancaster and sold a lot of evergreens and shrubs which some purchasers claimed were misrepresented. The peddler is gone and they have no recourse.

Within the last year, several truck and trailer loads of evergreens have been sold to Circleville residents. In most cases these plantings consist mostly of globe and pyramidal arborvitae. Landscape authorities agree that these two types of evergreens should never be planted in congested areas; that is, their use should be confined to country homes where they can be planted away from buildings or in cemeteries where there is a free circulation of good pure air. When planted in town they become unsightly within a few years and are subject to attacks of several insects are severely damaged by dogs. Folks admiring and purchasing these arborvitae wonder why they can not keep them looking like they were when they bought them and the reason is that nurseries where they are grown are located away from built up areas and they are dusted and sprayed regularly to prevent insect damage. Air filled with smoke, dust, and burnt gasoline odors seems to be fatal to these trees and to those who have bought them it is suggested that a bit of care may prolong their beauty a year or two. Spray them after each rain with nicotine sulphate, be sure they go into the winter with wet feet, turn the hose on them every two weeks and wash the foliage thoroughly. Finally, before you purchase anything from someone about whom you know nothing except his own representations and who comes from out of town, THINK TWICE.

OPEN LETTERS

TO CITY OFFICIALS

AUTHORITIES: After study and argument lasting several days, council has finally voted an ordinance to limit parking in the uptown area. The law becomes effective Nov. 6 and rules that no car shall be parked, during working days, for longer than two hours. This law, and its success, will depend entirely on the ability of the police department to enforce it, and the support the mayor gives his officers. A violation should be followed by a warning; the second violation by a fine, etc. The mayor's trial effort to limit parking has brought comment pro and con, but most of the persons who come to Circleville to do their shopping appear pleased with the fact that they can find places to park their automobiles near the various stores long enough to make necessary purchases. The practice of not limiting the length of time for cars to be parked resulted in many business house operators and clerks taking advantage of the situation to place their machines in front of their stores and leaving them there from morning to night. The city's police department, comprised of two men during the day, faces a real burden. These men will have to be on the street from morning until evening to check violations. This is another argument why better police protection should be provided. Any law that changes the customs as this parking statute is certain to do runs into much criticism, no matter how good it might be, so the better the law is enforced, the more value it will be to the community it serves.

CIRCUITEER

TO BUSINESS MEN

MERCHANTS: The Pumpkin Show is only a brief time away and many of you have much work to do before the opening day arrives. Your stores should be decorated in an attractive manner; your stocks should be arranged in such a way that they are certain to attract attention; clerks should have special instructions concerning handling the Pumpkin Show trade. The event brings the outstanding week of the year to Circleville business, and all of you should be ready to do your part to make it as profitable to you as possible. Many show visitors buy in the stores that attract them most, and it is up to each of you to do something about it.

CIRCUITEER

TO HIGHWAY OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: Pickaway county's three most dangerous highway intersections should be equipped with some type of electrical flasher lights. These intersections are on Route 104 at 56 and 22, and on Route 56 at 159. Regular highway signs have failed to stop accidents at these busy crossings. Pickaway countians are familiar with these dangerous intersections but motorists from other sections of the country are not. By the time they read the regular road signs they are practically on the intersections if they are traveling at high speeds. In my opinion flasher lights would help to solve these traffic problems. They would give motorists more warning. Fifteen persons have been killed in traffic accidents in Pickaway county this year. One man was instantly killed and another died later of injuries suffered in a collision at Routes 22 and 104 last Saturday. Anything that will stop accidents at these crossings is well worth giving a trial.

CIRCUITEER

TO DWIGHT STEELE

DEAR SIR: Your election as president of the Circleville Kiwanis Club is a compliment to you as a Kiwanian, and assurance that the club will be in good hands in 1937. Kiwanians have done much good in this community, and it is your duty to continue this work.

CIRCUITEER

TO TEEGARDIN FAMILY

FRRIENDS: To you and to Oakwood Emperor go a tribute from all of Pickaway county for the success the polled short-horn bull proved in the Texas Centennial livestock exposition. To win a state championship is proof of the ability of the animal, but to win the Texas title in addition to those of Illinois, Ohio and Indiana is a great honor. Your polled shorthorns have won prizes many years in various fairs and expositions, and you have brought much honor to Pickaway county.

CIRCUITEER

TO COUNTY FARMERS

FOLK: The survey just completed by the Department of Rural Economics of Ohio State university shows beyond any doubt that "things are looking up" through our fine county. When the income per acre can increase from $10.20 in 1933 to $14.37 in 1934, and then on to $16.07 in 1935 it is something to think about and consider. Things are good. The wheat and corn, though the latter supply was sadly depleted, brought high prices, and your other produce commanded high figures. The gross income during 1935 was high above that of any other recent year. Yes sir, Pickaway countians should be happy.

TO SHERIFF RADCLIFF

OFFICIAL: Your hundreds of friends read with interest that cost for maintaining prisoners in Pickaway county was much less than in any of six others visited by a county auditor. Your administration has been splendid; the work of your matron and your other employees at the jail has been remarkable, and still no one has been hungry or dissatisfied. How you are able to do it while other counties maintain higher levels is a puzzle to many of your followers, but facts are facts. Your capable administration has put you in line for another term.

TO CITY OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: Several months ago numerous Roundtowners donated to a fund for the installation of a historic circle in the main square paving. When the paving was completed the circle was lost in the tar and has remained that way up to the present time. More buff colored bricks were to be added to the circle to make it more clearly seen, but that promise faded out. Before Pumpkin Show I think it would be a wise move if city workers were given some scrapers and assigned to "find the circle." Since Circleville has a circle there is no better time to display it than during our annual fall festival that brings thousands.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON—Senator James Couzens, beaten for re-election in Michigan, will be missed in Washington. He has been one of the most picturesque lawmakers on Capitol Hill.

He has made various of his legislative associates and numerous functionaries in the executive branch of the government pretty wrathful from time to time, for he has referred to spades as spades with a deal of pungency. He thinks he isn't an orator, and in the academic sense maybe he isn't, but there have been plenty of occasions when he has raised particular hades in debate on the floor of the upper congressional chamber by the exceeding plainness of the terms in which he expressed himself—a lot more effectively than he could have employed any fancy flourishes.

He also was too independent to give close political friendships. Officially a Republican, the Republicans never have been sure that they could depend on him. He certainly isn't a Democrat. Members of the Progressive "bloc" have rather considered him one of their own, but there have been instances on which they have denounced him as positively reactionary. They expect reaction from reactionaries, but it always has shocked them when "Jim" Couzens has taken the conservative side of a question—and made them furious; they say he is "erratic."

SIMPLY IS COUZENS

The truth is that Couzens is not a Republican, a Democrat or a Progressive.

He simply is Couzens.

In the main he is a liberal, but with conservative streaks in him. The Democrats wanted to run him as their senatorial candidate in Michigan this year. He had no compunctions as to accepting a Democratic nomination, but if elected as a Democrat, he was bound to return to Washington minus his old Republican seniority rights, coming in as a Democratic "baby senator." Folk out in the "sticks" may not think that this amounts to much, but seniority is his life's blood to a member of congress. Rather than jeopardize it, Couzens was prepared to risk being defeated for re-nomination. His nomination as a Democrat being blocked thus, the senator chose to seek re-nomination as a Republican—not that he cared a hoot for Republicanism, but to save his personal seniority. To be a reasonably promising Republican senatorial candidate, however, he had to endorse Governor Landon. He would not do that, either; he insisted on running as a Republican candidate on a Democratic platform.

He "fell between two evils," as the old-time saying puts it.

A MAN OF PARADOXES

Senator Couzens, at that, is accustomed to political jobs to meet emergencies, regardless of politics.

He once told me:

He was police commissioner of Detroit. He said it was the most enjoyable job he ever had in his life. But he had an opponent, a candidate for mayor, who was sure to fire him if his rival won the mayoralty.

Couzens did not want the mayoralty, but he did not want to be "canned."

He had to win the mayoralty to save himself from being "canned."

He won the mayoralty but lost the police commissionership. This time he may have lost, and yet won.

FLOWERS AT HER FEET

By MARIE BLIZARD

COPYRIGHT, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
 By winning a $500 slogan contest, Alix Carey earns a promotion in the advertising agency where she is employed and enlists the personal interest of John Sayre, young president of the agency, whom she secretly admires. Coming to New York following her parents' death, Alix and Sayre begin to mix business and pleasure. They play golf and he invites her to a house party. There she is surprised to find one Carol Cushing, actress as Sayre's no-nonsense and is mortified when she overhears Carol belittling her to another guest. John apologizes for Carol's remarks and kisses Alix in the garden. At her request he takes a bracelet from Carol to have it remade for her birthday. Carol tries to become friendly with Alix before the latter goes home for a promised engagement.
 (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 18

JOHN SAYRE is just another man. He is president of the Sayre Advertising Agency. He's really your chief. He isn't someone you know—or know socially. Remember that, my girl, and expect nothing. Where's this new point of view of yours?

That was the way that Alix disciplined herself during the fortnight following her visit to Sayre's home.

She didn't know what to expect of him. She didn't know whether one put such things as had happened away in a niche to be taken out at will or whether such things changed the whole pattern.

She hoped fervently that it wouldn't. She wanted the calm security of good work to be done. Not work done between waiting to see him, wondering what he would say. She wished that everything could have been different and yet the same, that she might have had the same wonderful job in another agency and still known John Sayre.

Her first nervousness, dreading yet hoping to see him, the morning after her return from his country house, wore off as days went by and she didn't see or hear from him. She didn't even know that he had made a hurried trip to Chicago. She wouldn't have mentioned his name to any person in that whole organization, let it be known she wanted information. She heard too much of the talk and conjecture that went on in the rest room between the girls. Knew that it was almost impossible for them not to know everything.

Adjusting her lipstick in the mirror, reflecting so many other faces being repeated, she wondered wickedly what they'd say if she were to say coolly—with that pursed mouth—that she had been week-ending with him, and his guests, of course.

Naturally, she didn't. She was grateful that the Warner account was coasting smoothly and required nothing more from her than the development of technical details. It was no longer necessary for her to go to Sayre's office for his official approval.

Thus, she had two weeks to fortify herself for their next meeting.

It came in the elevator that bore them both upward.

"Good morning," she said. Four other people in the elevator said the same thing to him. He smiled at all of them and said to Alix, "How are you?"

He said it across the car and Alix felt as though it were the warm grasp of a friendly hand.

They walked down the corridor together. "Colonel bore you to death?" he asked.

"No, he was interesting."

"Did you get back in time to keep your engagement?"

Alix had to think of the answer to that one because she had her no engagement. "My engagement? Oh... yes, yes, of course."

His office was to the right, hers to the left. They stood at the end of the corridor that divided them for a moment without saying anything.

"Well," she smiled, "goodbye."

He waved his hand airily and that was all. Enough. Enough because she knew that he had wanted to stop and talk to her.

That night when she got home, she found a letter waiting for her, she found a letter waiting for her, she found a letter waiting for her.

The hand-writing was bold, masculine. She tore the envelope, opening it with eager anticipation.

Alix gave Bill the time of his life.

and looked at the signature. It was from Bill Boyd.

There was a picture of him in her desk, a picture he'd sent her after her return from New York. He used to write her every week then while he still hoped she'd marry him when she saw the world he was so sure she'd be fed up with long before this.

It was a picture of a nice looking face. A nice middle western honest face, rugged, kind. It came between her and the page in bold hand-writing.

She hadn't heard from Bill in over a year.

"I hope you're not married," he wrote, "but if you are, I'm going to see you anyway. The Deitrich company has bought a patent of mine and I've got to come to New York to fix things up with their lawyers. I'm arriving the first of November. That'll give you a week to break any other dates. I'd like to see you the night I arrive and all the other spare time you have while I'm there..."

The first was tomorrow. The letter had taken a week to arrive from her old address.

She'd be awfully glad to see him. Remember to buy flowers. Do some marketing. Show Bill Boyd how completely you've made this new world into something happy and real.

She sent him a wire. He said he'd be staying at the Plaza. She told him the telephone number of her office.

He called her at three. She told him she'd be at home by five-thirty. He said he would be there waiting for her.

At four o'clock Mr. Sayre's secretary asked her if she could come to Mr. Sayre's office.

Hastily she checked over her work wondering if something were wrong. He was writing at his desk when she opened the door as he said "Come in."

"Sit down, Alix." She sat down. "This is the first chance I've had to speak to you. You know I was in Chicago?"

"No, I didn't."

"Beastly trip. I went out to see about the McCall account. I'm afraid we're going to lose it to Federal."

"Surely..."

"I didn't ask you to come in to hear me unload my troubles."

"No?"

"No, I thought perhaps you might have dinner with me to-night."

The Lord had answered her prayer all right, Alix thought.

"I'd like to," she said. "But I'm afraid I can't. I... I have another engagement."

"I'm sorry," he said and looked disappointed. "Another time?"

"Another time," she said.

She let her breath out like a swimmer plunging into cold water. Well, that's the first hurdle. I'll be busy next time, too. I'm not going to be hurt and I'll surely be hurt if I see him many times more alone. The very thought of him sweeps over me like a flame. A flame that's bright and warm but does not burn. It isn't good to feel that way for a man you cannot have. That's the way that heart-break lies. I'll keep it out of my life, or closed away if it is here.

Then she went home—and there was Bill Boyd.

"Not engaged or anything?" Bill Boyd said holding her at arms length while he studied her.

"Not anything," she denied.

"What's the matter with these fellows in New York? How did you ever escape from them?"

Alix laughed at him delightedly. It was so good to see Bill. Bill who made her feel like something very special.

"You've been talking about me for the last hour, Bill. Tell me about the patent and I'll start dinner. We're going to have it here."

"Oh, no, we're not! You're going to put on your glad rags and we're going to a kitchen. Alix, you're the romantic lady in my life and you're going to stay that. Go along and put on your prettiest things. I'll tell you about the patent and my pot of gold when we've had dinner."

Alix gave Bill that week. She took him to Kathleen's house, asked people in for cocktails to meet him, saw three of the leading shows and gave him the time of his life. He decided to remain in New York an extra week.

The day that he decided to remain and Kathleen invited them to dinner at her house, John Sayre came to Alix's office and asked her if she'd like to go to the opera with him the following night. She said she was sorry she couldn't and cried all night.

But she felt strong and was proud of her strength.

The night before Thanksgiving Day, she found John waiting in his room before the little yellow door of her apartment.

"If Lochinvar has gone away, may I have some of the crumbs please? Will you give a poor man something to be thankful for tomorrow? Will you dine with me tonight?"

Pregnant Mother Should Consult Doctor Early

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
 THE BEST advice that can be given to the woman who has just discovered that she is to become a mother is to consult a physician immediately.

It is usually of interest, especially to the prospective father, to know whether there are going to be twins or not. This is also usually easy to diagnose, although I emphasize the usually because surprises do occur. Mrs. Dionne, I believe, did not believe in prenatal care, and the quintuplets nearly caused the only paternal fatality in Dr. Dato's experience.

The most reliable means of determining whether the mother is developing any of the poisons of pregnancy is by urine examination and taking the blood pressure.

These are simple, routine procedures which any physician can carry out. They give fair and early warning so that the prospective mother can be safeguarded against these insidious dangers.

The physician is able to give the mother advice about such almost regularly present symptoms as nausea and vomiting.

All prospective mothers wish to know about diet and exercise and a hundred other things. Each case is individual, and sometimes rest is necessary, and sometimes a good deal of exercise is advisable.

There is a widespread belief that working women have an easier time than sedentary women in childbirth. This is not by any means necessarily true. Mary Sherwood, in the Journal of Sociological Medicine, argues for statutory provisions to protect expectant mothers from employment at hard labor, with a rest period of several weeks after childbirth with wages continued. Undoubtedly with the new birth of social consciousness in our day, the mother will receive a larger share of protection than ever before.

Time of Birth Calculated

The time when birth may be expected is calculated from the history and the condition of the child, and the dimensions of the mother's pelvis—which is so important a determining factor in easy birth—are all simple calculations to make.

It is usually of interest, especially to the prospective father, to know whether there are going to be twins or not. Many Club Women Enjoy Discussions of Interest

Mrs. Padgett of Galion Asks Understanding Of Relations

The annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs opened in the Presbyterian church at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The assembly began with group singing, followed by the invocation by the Rev. E. S. Toensmeier. Mayor William J. Graham welcomed the guests to the city of Circleville. Mrs. Hulse Hays in behalf of the Monday club extended a warm greeting to the delegates. Mrs. J. H. Morrow of Wellston, responded.

Mrs. Henry W. Coultrap, district president, then presented Mrs. Earl W. Padgett of Galion, who is state president of the Ohio Federation. Mrs. Padgett used as the keynote of her address "A Better Understanding of Human Relations," saying "He that settled not his sails, knoweth not the port to which he is drifting." She stressed the club objectives, national health bureau, unemployment insurance program, war against crime, universal finger printing, Pan-American scholarship, with Miss Mendoga of South America already enrolled at Ohio State University. She spoke of the new department of Safety, which works with the state highway division in an effort to enroll every woman's club in the state in an intensive safety program.

Different phases of the club work were discussed, present day needs and future projects. Unity in diversity is the motto of the American club woman.

Mrs. Mitchell of Athens entertained with two lively violin solos, accompanied by Mrs. Robinson. Mrs. George E. Sharp, of Steubenville, conducted the public welfare forum with "Education for Living" as the motto of this department. Mrs. Russell Bennett, of Columbus, presented the work of the blind commission. She said that the heaviest burden of the blind is not blindness, but idleness. They do not ask charity or pity, but a market for their work. Ohio club women are helping to find a market.

Mrs. William Marting, of Iron-ton, spoke on child welfare. She told of the necessity for prenatal, natal and post-natal care for young mothers. The use of tobacco, liquor and the severe nervous tension of this present day has tended to make the strain of motherhood more hazardous. The diet, habits and mental attitude of the expectant mother must be given careful attention. She urged the formation of child friendship committees in every club.

OPES OF OHIO STATE AND PITTSBURGH DEPEND ON SATURDAY'S GAME

SUTHERLAND AND HIS SQUAD WORK IN DRILL

Outcome May Help Decide National Grid Leader for Present Year

BOTH OUTFITS MIGHTY Injury to Gales May Hurt Ohio's Line Play

COLUMBUS, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Two of the nation's gridiron giants, the University of Pittsburgh and Ohio State, rested their hopes for a possible mythical national championship on the outcome of their contest here tomorrow.

Although scheduled far earlier than most title-bearing games, the championship aspirations of both teams hinge squarely on its outcome. The intersectional battle is certain to draw a capacity crowd of 70,000 fans.

Dr. Jock Sutherland and his squad of 33 players arrived here shortly after noon today. The Panthers were to take an hour's drill in the giant Ohio stadium and then relinquish the field to permit the Bucks to wind up their preparations.

Plan Aerial Circus

Tomorrow's contest pits two of the country's master football strategists against each other for the first time. Dr. Sutherland, an exponent of conservative offensive play, whose main forte is smashing line attacks faces Francis A. Schmidt, the dour Texan, who introduced the "aerial circus" to mid-western gridirons.

It is a coaching battle between a man whose philosophy is to be satisfied with a steady diet of a few yards on each ball carrying attempt as opposed to one whose methods ask for gains that are measured in wholesale quantities.

One of the chief cries of teams which have fallen before Ohio during the Schmidt regime has been their inability to combat the Bucks' man-power. Pitt will not be forced to yield any quarter there. The Panthers, like Ohio, are practically "three-deep" at every position.

With both squads studded with star ball carriers, the contest may turn into a free-scoring battle rather than a hand-to-hand fight of two bulky lines.

Pitt flashed great strength in its 53 to 0 rout of Ohio Wesleyan and the 30 to 0 triumph over West Virginia. The scoring power of the Bucks was unquestioned after the 60 to 0 setback of New York University.

The biggest offensive threat to the Bucks' cause is Marshall Goldberg, the only sophomore to break into Pitt's brilliant array of back-field talent.

Backing up this 185-pound package of offensive dynamite is a group of ball carriers that includes Bobby La Rue, Frank Patrick, Arnold Greene, Leo Malarky, Harold Stebbins, Johnny Wood and Bill Stapulis.

Gales Still Hurt

With the exception of tackle Charley Gales, Schmidt probably will start the same eleven which took the field against N. Y. U.

Captain Merle Wendt and Frank Cumiskey will be at the ends; Charley Hamrick and Charley Ream at the tackles; Inwood Smith and Gus Zarnas at the guards and Ralph Wolfe at center.

The backs will be "Tippy" Dye, Bill Booth, Johnny Bettridge and Jim McDonald.

"Jumpin' Joe" Williams will be held in reserve and counted upon to match the individual brilliance of Goldberg may flash.

There is a possibility Schmidt may make a last minute switch and replace Booth with the sophomore Mike Kabealo so as to insure the Bucks of a capable punter.

LOUIS TO MEET JORGE BRESCIA IN GOTHAM RING

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The lure of Joe Louis' fists thundering on the body of a boxer who is given slight chance to win will draw a capacity crowd of 7,000 into the Hippodrome tonight.

These spectators will pay approximately $50,000 to see Louis, still boxing's magic name, try to crush Young Jorge Brescia of Argentina, the third sacrificial lamb in Joe's campaign to regain some of the prestige lost when he was knocked out last summer by Max Schmeling.

There has been little betting on the fight but two dollars will get you one if you back Louis. And the wagering is even that he kayoes the South American before the halfway mark.

BUCKS FAVORED TO CAPTURE TILT WITH PITTSBURGH

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(UP)—Ohio State, Minnesota and Southern California—three of 1936's potential gridiron giants—will triumph in the major games this Saturday, United Press sports writers predicted today.

Ohio State, which meets the rugged Pitt Panthers at Columbus, and Minnesota, which plays a tough Nebraska team, will win by slim margins while Southern California, bounding again into national prominence, should encounter little trouble from Illinois.

Here are the picks by sections:

EAST:
S. M. U. over Fordham; Army to wallop Columbia; Holy Cross will down Dartmouth; Harvard over Brown; Villanova over Penn State; Princeton over Rutgers with ease; Navy to take Virginia and Yale over Pennsylvania in a tight one.

MID-WEST:
Ohio State over Pittsburgh; Minnesota to stop Nebraska, defending Big Six titleholder, and Southern California over Illinois. Michigan State will wallop Michigan in a Big Ten battle; Notre Dame over Washington U. of St. Louis; Purdue over Wisconsin, Kansas over Iowa State and Kansas State over Missouri.

KIPKE'S MEN IN LIGHT WORK FOR INDIANA 11

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 9.—(UP)—The Wolverines drilled lightly today, concentrating on faults which movies of the Michigan State game showed last night.

Indicated changes in tomorrow's starting lineup against Indiana were: Art Valpey, 190-pounder, at end; Dan Smick, sophomore who has developed into a first-class pass receiver, at end; Capt. Mat Patanelli is still on the injured list, and Forrest Jordan or Jim Lincoln at tackle for Mel Kramer.

BIERMAN USES SOPHOMORE ON STARTING TEAM

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—(UP)—The Gophers reviewed plays and ran through a light signal drill as a final bit of polishing for the Nebraska game tomorrow.

A sophomore fullback, George Faust, whom Bernie Bierman called "the most improved man on the squad in the last two weeks," will make his debut tomorrow in the backfield.

Women Drivers Rank First

HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—Women top men in motor law tests in Connecticut. State records show that they know the answers better than men, and few women applicants for licenses are finally rejected.

About This And That In Many Sports

Seeding Approved

Here's news: The superintendents of Pickaway county schools have agreed, after recommendation by the county coaches, to seed the first four teams in the county cage schedule—Two teams will be placed in one bracket and two in the other—Similar action was voted last year, but it was rescinded before the tournament—Coaches hope a like move will not be made this year. ***

Gridders to Meet

All persons seeking places on the Circleville independent football team are urged to report at Denny's field Sunday at 2 p. m.

Greeno Sells Racer

Phil Greeno, former Circleville horseman now of Wilmington, has developed a trotter, Calumet Fieber, 2:08 1/4, which has been sold to the St. Paul Horse and Mule Co., for $1,500, one of the highest prices commanded at the Lexington track this fall—Calumet Fieber had been warmed up to run at Lexington, and just before the horses were called to the post Harry Fitzpatrick, Grand Circuit reinsman, handed Greeno a check for the horse, a four-year-old. ***

Predictions?

Predictions this week provide a headache even before they are made—How about Ohio State and Pittsburgh, Minnesota and Nebraska, and Illinois and Southern California?—You pick them—This column is taking Ohio to win, Minnesota and Illinois to do the same—Michigan State over Carnegie Tech; Chicago over Butler; Duke over Clemson—Fordham over Southern Methodist—Michigan over Indiana—Kentucky over Georgia Tech—Miami over Michigan State Teachers—Northwestern over North Dakota State—Ohio U. over Marshall—Western Reserve over Ohio Wesleyan—Pennsylvania over Yale. ***

HE'S THE CAPTAIN

DEWITT WEAVER

Tennessee
WHEN YOU say "Howdy" to DeWitt Weaver, University of Tennessee captain and guard, it would be appropriate to ask, "And how's the missus?" DeWitt, you see, is the only man on the Tennessee squad who has been tossed for a loss by Daniel Q. Cupid.

Mr. Weaver, by the way, came by his good luck all about the same time. When he was elected captain of the team, his hometown sweetheart elected him as her captain. The home town is Nashville. "Dee," that's his nickname, has to work his way through school. He helps his dad during the summer months at his work as an interior decorator. He likes it so well he plans to make it his life's work.

Though making a living takes up much of his time, "Dee" is quite a figure on the campus. He is active in student organizations, is a member of several honor societies and pledges loyalty to Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Outside of football, the Tennessee captain is toponch as a swimmer and on the golf links. He concentrates on football, however. Captain Weaver is a smart, aggressive type of grid player and is sure to receive plenty of consideration as a power in the Southeastern conference this year.

A senior, "Dee" is 23, six feet tall and weighs 180 pounds. He has been a varsity guard for two years.

The wealth that "doesn't bring happiness" is the wealth added to what you have when you have all you need.

ED THORGERSON TO INTERVIEW FAMED MENTOR

Horton to Put X-ray on Stuart Erwin in Ballew Hour

Gar Davidson, coach of the Army football eleven, will be interviewed by Ed Thorger, nationally-known sports reporter and football authority, on the Football Review Saturday night.

Coach Davidson, whose Army mules meet their first major test of the season Saturday afternoon in New York in the game with Columbia University, is the first of a number of coaches to be interviewed during the football season on the broadcast over the Columbia network each Saturday at 8:30 p. m. EST. Kay Kyser's band, favorite among collegians, also is heard regularly on the broadcast with Thorger, who gives scores, discusses the day's game brings other sports news hot off the teletype wires that run directly into the studio.

Davidson's team this year is one of the front ranking football elevens. He will be in the Columbia studios a few hours after the final whistle blows for the interview with Thorger. Other football coaches will be presented during the season.

Kyser's band, as usual, will open the broadcast with a college football medley, following later with "Picture Me Without You," "Ish Kabibble," "Make Believe," with a glee club accompaniment "When A Lady Meets A Gentleman, Down South," and "Me and the Moon."

HORTON TO "X-RAY"

With Edward Everett Horton, famous screen comedian, starting his two-year contract to appear as a star each week, the Chateau comes to the air waves next Saturday night, at 9:30 p. m. over the NBC red network with new ideas in entertainment and a musical comedy stock company, headed by Smith Ballew, the show's singing master of ceremonies.

Horton will appear each week as the "X-Ray" of Radio, to "X-ray" any individuals or situations that seem to need it during the course of the full hour show, and to do a comedy spot in each broadcast. This week Horton will turn his "X-ray" on Stuart Erwin, another film comic, usually cast as the dumb reporter in pictures, who plays the role of a hillbilly for a duel of words with Horton.

Gertrude Niesen, popular radio singer, is another guest artist who comes to the Chateau for the evening's entertainment. She has long been a favorite with network audiences but returns to the air after an absence of some weeks in the Chateau.

While Horton will inject himself into any situation or event during the broadcast, the master of ceremonies post will be retained by Smith Ballew, and Victor Young's orchestra will furnish the music.

With this program starts another new feature, "The Adventures of Peggy Gardiner," which will be presented in serial form weekly. Peggy had been singing on the Chateau with Jack Stanton for the last year, and the two will continue to be heard in duets, with the serial story of Peggy's life an added attraction. Interesting personalities will be interviewed each week by Horton, and the Chateau will present regularly a special musical production number by Victor Young, the girls' trio, the Max Terr motion picture chorus of 16 voices; and Tudor Williams, widely known soloist, besides popular songs by Smith Ballew.

MAYOR, WIFE TO SPONSOR ART EXHIBIT AND LECTURE NEXT WEDNESDAY

PIECES OF PERSIAN WORKS SHOWN IN HALL

Khan's Address to Deal With Peace and Unity in World

COMES FROM EXPOSITION

No Charge to Be Made for Interesting Evening

Cincinnati and Pickaway county residents will be given an unusual treat next Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. when Dr. Ali Kuli Khan, of Washington, D. C., internationally known scholar, art collector and lecturer, presents an exhibition and address in Memorial hall.

The exhibition will include numerous rare pieces of Persian art both modern and antique. Many of these articles were displayed by Dr. Khan at the Century of Progress and the Cleveland Exposition.

An unusual feature of the exhibition and lecture is the fact there is no admission charge, no collections will be taken, and nothing in the exhibit is for sale.

Sponsored by Mayor

Dr. Khan is being brought to Cincinnati by Mayor and Mrs. W. Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham made arrangements through New York friends to have Dr. Khan visit Cincinnati. He will lecture in Columbus on Oct. 15. His lecture subjects are on world peace and unity.

Dr. Khan was graduated from the University of Tehran in Persia 36 years ago, with a gold doctorate of philosophy. For 26 years he was in the official diplomatic service and has spent 38 years as a teacher, translator and interpreter. He has lectured throughout America, Europe and Persia.

Served As Minister

In 1919 Dr. Khan served as a member of the Persian peace delegation at Paris. He later was minister to Poland and in 1921 served as minister in charge of the Persian embassy at Constantinople. He was appointed grand master of the Imperial Court of the Persian crown prince, Regent at Teheran, served as diplomatic representative of Persia to the Republic of Caucasus in southern Russia, and during the Tart and Wilson administrations was in Washington, D. C.

All interested persons are invited to see the exhibition and hear Dr. Khan's lecture.

prescribed procedure. He insisted that as Spain is not a member of the committee, Britain must assume responsibility for the Del Vayo note which Lord Plymouth presented. Calheiros and Grandi identified themselves with Bismarck's attitude.

Lord Plymouth then explained that Britain had submitted the Spanish indictment not as a British complaint but as a matter of interest to world opinion.

He said Britain was willing to take the responsibility for placing the Spanish complaint on the committee's agenda as a topic of discussion.

"Two methods present themselves," the speaker continued, "first, by out own belief expressed through action and by an education which shall relate the life of the past with the life of the present."

SPEAKER ASKS IDEAL RETURN

traits they possessed in overcoming hardships and dangers to find new frontiers. She used as her examples the pioneer mother and George Washington.

"In the light of our analysis," she stated, "it seems only logical that we as the adult generation, shall we say, ourselves partly responsible for the lapse in the fine heritage given by the pioneer mother and Washington, should help to point the way, especially when our young people turn to us and say 'What has happened?'"

Even though it may be something of a Herculean task, we must accept the challenge.

"Four frontiers loom for us to overcome," Dean Voight said. "They are:

"1. Rebuilding the family unit as a stabilizing factor in modern life.

"2. Rebuilding a moral code of adequate living to replace the inflated post-war standards.

"3. Rebuilding the genuine patriotism which shall include both national and international loyalties.

"4. Rebuilding a conception of dominating spiritual forces which were shattered in the grief and despair of war devastation and desolation.

Up to Older Generation?

Dean Voight asked the question: Can the partial breakdown of the family as a stable unit of society be laid at the door of the older generation? The generation did not set about making a change but it promoted and in turn became victimized by the theory of individualism and the machine age. The latter advanced with such speed that its promoters became victims of the whirlwind, she told her audience.

"It was very easy, therefore, for a generation that had this mechanistic civilization superimposed on it to lose sight of the proper balance between individualistic and cooperative living, and to be utterly unaware of the painful aftermath for a generation that knew no other civilization. The present economic situation demands reemphasis and reinterpretation of cooperation.

"The second frontier," she said, "rebuilding a moral code of living after an inflation and partial collapse of what was really a far more difficult frontier than any of our forebears faced.

"The simplicity of their lives gave, naturally, a rather formal and indisputable code of living where black was black and white was white, and there were no gray shades in between. Today there are so many varying shades of gray that for young people it is difficult to recognize either truth or falsehood. We of the older generation have to offer as a measuring stick the established virtues of our pioneers such as loyalty, courage, steadfastness of purpose, belief in the future, temperance, physical integrity and self-discipline."

Two Methods Advised

The dean of women then went to the third frontier, rebuilding a genuine patriotism, which shall embrace both our national and international relations. Methods suggested for this to come about were: first, by sloughing off of the pseudo-patriotism, based on war glamor and post-war hysteria, and unreasonable national class and race prejudice; second by substituting basic democratic principles of the inherent right of all, and a sympathetic enthusiasm and appreciation of the contributions of all sections to the national culture and the contributions of all nations to the international culture. "On this frontier," Dean Voight said, "both the older and younger generations are standing. On this frontier, it would seem that the more generous and open-minded nature of youth will point the way."

The fourth frontier, rebuilding a conception of dominating spiritual forces, is also a joint problem in which older and younger generations are groping. War disillusionment always means low spiritual ebbs. The parents who have been the victims have little to pass on to their children.

"In our day," the speaker stated, "no spiritual prophet has arisen. Old and young alike may turn back to a study of the real sources of strength in our American colonies. This study will reveal that the Bible served to arm the God-fearing pioneers with the courage and devotion which gave us America."

Confidence Expresses

Dean Voight expressed confidence in the present generation, saying that in the last five years she has observed a great change in attitude. "There is a very good chance that all four frontiers will be overcome."

"We," she closed, "can cooperate."

Dean Voight's address followed an hour's program by the music division of the Monday Club, directed by Mrs. James P. Moffitt.

ference, but it was believed it was to unify the various state groups and factors into a solid Roosevelt group.

Marvin H. McIntyre, White House secretary, said Democrats and Farmer-Laborites were invited. Among those were Frank White, head of the Minnesota Farm Bureau; Frank Murphy, state chairman of the Roosevelt all-party agricultural committee.

As his train toured into the prairie country the "President" worked feverishly on the major and minor addresses he will deliver before the tour ends Oct. 17. At least two major speeches are on the books—one at Omaha, Neb., tomorrow night, another at Chicago Oct. 14. Interspersed is a series of shorter talks, mostly from the rear platform.

To Support Norris

At Omaha the President is expected to make a vigorous defense of administration farm policies and appeal for the re-election of Sen. George Norris, veteran Nebraska and independent New Deal supporter.
